Project Details

1. Describe the commodity/service that the agency/institution is seeking to procure:

QML software is the middleware used to interface POCT devices to Epic. This software provides data management and reporting for the POCT section of the Clinical Lab. It also assists in meeting UMMC's accrediting agency requirements. Due to QML's open architecture, it makes it simple to add or exchange devices without any downtime. This software also allows the POCT staff to configure in real time; there is no need to call the company to assist unless it is a new interface implementation or troubleshooting for an unexpected issue, QML has the ability to lockout un-certified operators.

2. Explain why the commodity/service is the only one (1) that can meet the needs of the agency/institution:

Telcor has all the instrument drives that we currently need for the following devices: Nova Biomedical Glucose Meter, Clinitek Status Connect, Roche Coaguchek XS Plus/Pro, ACT Plus, I-Stat, GEM 4000 and the GEMOPL.

3. Explain why the source is the only person or entity that can provide the required commodity/service:

Telcor - QML software is the only middleware platform not currently owned by a device or reagent company industry. This allows Telcor to offer unlimited flexibility in which instrumentation we pursue. QML software can only be purchased directly from TELCOR, Inc.

This software is not available from any other distributor. See supporting letter from Telcor, Inc, Attachment A.

4. Explain why the amount to be expended for the commodity/service is reasonable:

The estimated amount to be expended is for the purchase of the QML Software is $26,067.00. This amount is within the expected price range for these products.

5. Describe the efforts that the agency/institution went through to obtain the best possible price for the commodity/service:

Through market intelligence, UMMC was able to negotiate best pricing for these products. All applicable discounts were explored and applied.
