Re: Single Source Provider

RedSail Technologies, LLC ("RedSail") (formerly Smith Technologies, LLC a division of the J M Smith Corporation), was founded in the early 1970's. In 1977, the company recognized healthcare professionals need for specific software and hardware packages designed to help provide more efficient and effective care for customers and pharmacy patients.

RedSail provides products, services, and support to a variety of healthcare providers with a primary focus on providing the industry's best pharmacy management software for community pharmacies, chain pharmacies, long-term care pharmacies, and home medical equipment providers. Specific functionality of RedSail's software products can be found in Exhibit A of the accompanying proposal. RedSail is the single source of all RedSail software products.

Our 500+ employees develop, train, and support our customers through our broad network of North American field offices. RedSail does not authorize any third party to provide technical support to any of RedSail's products.
